How Fast Can You Speak English?

Do you speak English quickly or do you speak it slowly? One way to find out is to count the number of words you say in one minute. In a friendly conversation, most people speak English between 120 and 180 words per minute. Many things can affect how fast you talk. For example, if you feel sad or tired you might speak slowly. If you feel nervous, angry or excited, you will probably speak faster. Also, where you live may affect your speaking speed. Your personality is also important. Some people just "naturally" speak slowly or quickly. Finally, if you are still learning English as a second (or third) language, you will probably speak it more slowly than native speakers, people whose first language is English. The fastest female speaker in the world is Fran Capo. She is from New York City and she is an actress and a writer, and she is often a guest on many radio talk shows and television programmes. Amazingly, she can speak a little over 600 words per minute! Steve Woodmore, from the United Kingdom, is the fastest speaker in the world, and he can speak 637 words per minute!

1. We speak 190 words a minute with friends.
2. We speak slowly when excited.
3. Some people are born fast speakers.
4. English native speakers speak English faster than some non-natives.
5. Fran Capo is the fastest male speaker in the world.
6. She is not invited to shows.
7. Fran has a job in a radio station.
8. It is not surprising that she can speak around 600 words per minute.
9. No other speaker in the world is faster than Steve.
10. He is able to speak 637 words in a minute.
